Google Home (PR21179)

<https://ilcaustralia.org.au/products/21179>

A voice-activated speaker powered by Google's virtual assistant service. The speaker can be linked to smart devices to enable hands-free voice control over compatible appliances, environmental control units and smart devices using the trigger phrase "Okay Google". As a stand alone device, it can stream music through compatible music services and can provide information in response to questions via natural language interactions. It has an array of far-field microphones designed to be always listening for commands through Google Assistant. Multiple Google Home devices can be grouped together for different parts of the house.
